Science tells us that we can't rely on processes and procedures to provide an environment free from injuries and incidents. Leaders create the environment. Is that environment purposefully created for success, or is it an environment created by default?

Over two days we will focus on:

- Improving current safety systems through Behavioural Science
- Introducing cutting edge ideas to improve safety in your workplace
- Realising your safety aspirational targets and goals.

With many opportunities for you to:

- Interact with leading experts in the field
- Share ideas with other behavioural science and safety experts
- Spend time with our guest speakers

Our guest speakers include:
